

Dan Doiron has been addicted to the raw energy of the electric guitar since he formed his first band at age 13 in Port Hood, Cape Breton, Canada. A blazing spitfire guitarist, Dan fuses potent guitar riffs and grooves with unique lyrics reflecting his views on everyday life, ensuring an emotional, thrilling musical ride at every band and solo show.

He's profoundly committed to the music, crafting his own style that draws upon over forty years of his traditional and modern guitar studies and experiences as a musician, songwriter, music educator, (B.MUS.Ed from Dalhousie University with a major in classical guitar), National guitar clinician, (Roland Canada), and recording engineer. Dan is also dedicated to sharing that passion and knowledge and has developed a diverse variety of workshops and clinics that focus on guitar technique and improvisation, songwriting, and incorporating technology to assist musical growth. He's experienced in presenting to all ages and levels and especially enjoys the opportunity to inspire the next generation of musicians through "Blues in Schools" presentations.

After many years as a sideman, in 2011 Dan stepped out as a solo recording artist, earning both East Coast Music Award and Music Nova Scotia nominations for his debut CD, "Even My Guitar Is In Love With You". A torrential body of work has followed and his fourth album "Livin' Centre Stage" is being released in early 2018.

From playing intimate solo house concerts and blues clubs, to his band's energetic performances at major festivals, Dan's priority is to connect with the audience at every opportunity. "At every show I realize that it's a great honour to meet people, share music and stories and I never take that privilege for granted.."
